New Sparkling Single

Amsterdam-based electronic producer Three Colored Squares is releasing a new shiny house single “Sparkling”.

Release date: December 17

Genres: Alternative Dance, House

Similar artists: Ross from Friends, Mount Kimbie, Rival Consoles

Celebration nostalgia is the shortest description of the single's overall spirit. Supported by a soft funky bass line, the composition swings between a blinking as champagne bubbles arpeggio and a viscous synth melody where notes slowly fade in and disappear, like remembrances you're trying to recall but they slip out.

These lines are shortly being joined by a rewinding tape with already familiar sounds oddly blinking and changing each other, adding layers of both emotional and sonic complexity to the generally simple track.

“Sparkling” is an ode to happy moments of the past as seen from the point of time when they might not happen again but the resolution can be found in memories.

Coming from the working-class outskirts of an industrial Russian city, Amsterdam-based producer Andrey Ozornin aka Three Colored Squares naturally combines authentic northern darkness with western laconism in sincere melodic compositions. Having a deep hi-tech background, he prefers to create music on portable digital devices, although his music stays pronouncedly humane.
